Student Leaders To Talk At Orientation Sections

Freshmen will get a look at most of the student leaders during tomorrow's orientation activities. It was announced by Chuck Hobbs, general chairman of the orientation week proceedings.

All members of the executive council, and cabinet will address the newcomers. In addition to representatives of service, geographical, social, and departmental units, publications, Inter-Organizational Council, forensics and military. The student coordinator will also speak.

This portion of the orientation schedule will be divided into four sections, each lasting an hour and a half. A short skit is also slated during this program.

Presxy Speaks

W. H. Tuggey, studentbody president, will speak for ten minutes during each section.

Hobbs stated that the theme of orientation week is "The Spirit of the Y."

He added that freshmen would soon catch the feeling of the school spirit after attending classes and assemblies here. "It is all so the aim of the orientation week committee to instill a spirit of friendliness in the newly-arrived freshmen," he said.

In other orientation week activity, an assembly entitled "The Y Wants U" is scheduled for tonight at 7:30 in the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse. Participating in the program will be the Delphic Society, Dex Baller, and His Y's Men, the Debonettes, a duet number, solo, and other features.

Talent Night

Tomorrow night will be "Talent Night" at the fieldhouse. Several outstanding performers will be chosen during the show to appear in student presentations during the year, it was announced. Curtain time is 7:30 p.m.

Auditions for "Talent Night" will be held today from 11:15 a.m. until 1 p.m. and from 4:15 to 6:30 p.m. at College Hall. Tomorrow the auditions should appear during the time allowed for paying tuition.

At 7 p.m. Saturday a pep rally will be staged in the Cougar Stadium prior to the first home game for the Y gridlers. Freshman song and yell leaders will be present at the rally.

After the game, which is slated for 8 p.m., an outside dance will be held on the parking lot adjacent to the fieldhouse. All students are invited to the dance. Gene Twitchell, chairman of the student dance committee said, it will end at 11:45.

C'mon Out, Cosmo ...

Record Rally, Game Crowd Anticipated For Saturday

After over 3,000 freshmen attended and participated in the Cub Rally Tuesday night, Pep Committee Chairman Tom Reeve anticipates "one of the greatest rallies in the history of Brigham Young University," this Saturday night.

Rally will begin at 7 p.m. in suites before the first Cougar home game with Los Angeles State College.

Gene Sare, San Diego, Calif., rally chairman, encouraged all upperclassmen to join with the freshmen for the studentbody kick-off rally.

Studentbody Songleaders Sharon Benson, Pomona, Calif.; Lois Lovelend, St. Louis, Mo.; Janice Zollinger, Logan; and Phyllis Hansen, Long Beach, Calif.; will be on hand with their new uniforms, Reeve said. A large group of yell leaders will also participate, he added.

The rally is planned to encourage "Cosmo" to return to the campus. "Cosmo is the symbol of spirit and enthusiasm found at the 'Y,'" Reeve said. The Cougar-costumed student, whose identity is kept secret until later in the year, has not yet appeared on campus, but Danny Gallego, "Cosmo's" trainer reports the Tuesday Fresh rally nearly lured "Cosmo" from his mountain lair.

The rally is being held in the stadium to insure those attending good seats for the 8 p.m. football game, and to remind the football team that they have "the studentbody rooting for them," Reeve said, "as they dress for the game."

All students are reminded to pay their tuition fee so they will have their studentbody card for admittance to the game and rally.

Student Leadership Meet Held At Bryce Canyon Last Week

"Behold Eternity" was chosen by studentbody officers as the theme of the 6th annual Student Leadership Conference, held at Bryce Canyon, Sept. 16 and 17.

Standing for the eternal nature of Brigham Young University, "Behold Eternity" was meant to signify to student leaders that they are laying the foundation for greater things to come, according to W. H. Tuggey, studentbody president. It was emphasized to the group that it is their duty as officers to fulfill this theme by working to promote progress at the school.

One hundred and fifty student leaders, faculty members, and guests were on hand when Tuggey, and Dr. Henry Isakson, student coordinator, opened the conference Friday morning.

A full schedule of information sessions was carried out during the conference. These sessions stressed ideals, goals, culture and activities at BYU.

Kyotting the conference was a speech Friday evening by Harvey L. Taylor, executive assistant to Dr. Ernest L. Wilkinson, BYU president. He told the student leaders their task is, "to build bridges to point the way that others may know where to go and what to do." He also urged leaders to plan ahead, refrain from small talk and gossip, and delegate as much authority as possible.

Clarence H. Tingey, father of the studentbody president, represented parents of the leaders in a short message preceding Pres. Taylor.

A sunrise service on Inspiration Point was the highlight of Saturday morning. The address was given by Lynn Richards of the Sunday School General Board and father of studentbody secretary Vickie Richards.

The service was followed by more information sessions, a program by the student program bureau and a hike down the canyon.

Concluding session was Saturday evening. The group returned to Provo by chartered bus.

OOOH, IT'S A MAN—Three BYU coeds, (l to r) Adele Slaughter, Bakersfield, Calif.; Betty Hansen, Lincoln Park, Mich.; and Evelyn Murray, Boise, Ida.; rehearse the dance they will present tonight in the assembly "B Y Wants U." Acts in the assembly will depict various scenes of how students fit into school life. The assembly, to be presented in the Smith Fieldhouse, is directed by Marilyn Worsley. (Photo by Ralph Barney)

WHAT IS A FRESHMAN?

This week thousands of unlearned, wide-eyed freshmen poured into the Brigham Young University campus. They walked unhesitatingly through the buildings, looking for orientation classrooms, and contemplating the sadness the awful reality of the forth-coming "Cougar Cub Week."

They listened avidly to student leaders and to members told them what was in store for them. Dances, football games, parties, picnics, social units, dates—and studying.

"You'll be tough," the professors said, "to adjust yourselves to studying two hours at night for every one spent in classrooms, but the best students do, and it should be realized that this is the minimum amount of study expected from each student."

Next week they will be lonesome among unknown seniors, juniors, and sophomores.

Just what are those things called "freshmen?"

A freshman is the student who ticked the week-old billy goat on President Wilkinson's front porch early one morning (2 a.m.) last spring.

A freshman is the scared little thing that inquired of a senior during last year's orientation week, "where's the Charley Smith Building?"

A freshman is the young lady who got for three weeks through her physics class before she discovered that it was not a Sociology 13 section.

A freshman is the student who takes upper division classes and finds in the best term paper, "This professor is dying, please irritate him to juniors and seniors, but some reason."

A freshman is the student who knows all the answers in Theology classes that have large groups of returned missionaries enrolled. In this type of class the instructor sometimes gets in a word—amen.

A freshman is the young lady who loses three nights of sleep because she flunked a history exam after going to a dance instead of studying.

A freshman is the best dancer at the next dance, but this does him little good, because no one in her right mind looks twice at such waltzers.

A freshman is the pretty girl who sits on the front seat of every classroom and walks off with an "A."

A freshman is the homesick 18-year-old who seriously considers taking the next train home until a friendly senior administrator a slap on the back and an invitation to stay it to the next dance.

A freshman is the girl who is "bitching," and spends her bi-weekly allowance from home a week too soon. Too proud to write for more money, she lives on peanuts and soft drinks until the next check comes.

A freshman is the lad who sadly goes to his dorm to advise him that because no jobs are available, he cannot stay in school. His classes continue where the dean not only locates a job, but also advises the freshman on how students live cheaply in 1965.

A freshman is the anxious little blonde who lost her beamer during "Cougar Cub Week." She has received a summons to freshman court, and just knows she'll say the wrong thing.

A freshman is the new student who loses all fear of the new college life at the first assembly, when the Fieldhouse seems to shake as thousands of voices sing "Come, Come, Ye Saints."

A freshman is a funny person. Sometimes scared, sometimes mad, sometimes homesick, and sometimes happy, the yearly throng of new collegians somehow seems to be the life of the university.

They holler the loudest at athletic events, participate the most in classrooms, and attend the most assemblies. Their new ideas scotch the senility and conservatism that is evident in all institutions.

They tend to be pedantic, but this is the privilege of any scholar. They tend to be too frivolous, but seniors tend to be too serious. They pretend to be innocent, but theirs are the hearts of pranksters.

Welcome to Brigham Young University, freshmen! The campus is yours.

'Man Who Makes Diamonds' Receives Appointment Here

If Tracy Hall, former research associate at General Electric Research Laboratory, Schenectady, N.Y., has been appointed director of research at Brigham Young University, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Dr. Hall recently laid claim while at the Schenectady Laboratory, to producing the world's first laboratory-made diamonds which are visible to the naked eye and are the first to pass all necessary tests of scientific accuracy.

Dr. Hall's man-made diamonds were displayed at the GE Research Laboratory in Schenectady, N.Y., last February. Since that time the responsibility for commercial development of the diamonds has been assigned to the Oakley Department of the General Electric Co. in Detroit. Company officials have said that future commercialization of industrial diamonds would give American industry an independent, domestic source for the highly strategic material.

The synthesis of the diamonds was accomplished in an apparatus which Dr. Hall designed in which sustained pressures in excess of 1,500,000 pounds per square inch with temperatures above 5,000 degrees Fahrenheit were obtained.

A native of Ogden, Dr. Hall received the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor of philosophy degrees from the University of Utah. He served two years in the U.S. Navy as an Ensign and has also worked with the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hall Ogden. His wife is the former Mrs. Rose Langford, also of Ogden.

While at BYU, Dr. Hall will encourage research in all fields and he plans to continue research in the making of man-made diamonds.

Leader Praises Brochure Work

Karl Snow, president of the Blue Key national honorary fraternity, lauded the efforts of Elvina Gardner and other members of the organization for their work in publishing "B Y and You," the freshman handbook.

Gardner edited the brochure, and other members of the Blue Key organization gathered material. Elva Christensen acted as associate editor, and Nena Law did the art work.

Also aiding in producing the publication were Joe V. Jacobs and Dr. Henry L. Laiken.

The pamphlet is published every year to familiarize new students with the campus school policies, procedures, traditions, student leaders, and administrative staff.

Waist High September . . .

Studentbody Prexy Welcomes New Class of Frosh Students

by Wild Tugger
Studentbody President

Those of us who remained on campus during the summer "bon voyage" vacation have probably observed that the physical locations can appear so different as a university campus. Months of August. The main campus. Even the physical appearance of buildings grounds are usually familiar areas. The campus we know so well.

When September starts waist high in vegetation, however, the green hillsides, disorienting as they are, make a world of difference and the magic comes flooding back into a full view. The magic draws the people and that first wave is almost entirely freshmen. Cold? Not in your life! That life is warm and friendly and the campus seems to life upon the stimulation of the month.

It is with a great deal of gratitude that we welcome what appears to be the greatest influx of students in BYU history. The experiences ahead would amaze all of us should we be permitted to view them in advance. Each year gets bigger and better in every way and these who have become part of this university must realize they are the most fortunate of all. They will be here to see the greatest progress and development.

Everyone gets confused once in a while. That's nothing to be ashamed of. Confusion may be an advantage in these pre-fresh days—it gives opportunity to ask questions and clarify uncertainties. This campus boasts the best orientation atmosphere in the found anywhere in the nation. The technique of inventing questions for the specific purpose of introduction is not altogether unknown in this vicinity. Whatever the reason, the practice is so covered and the results are in varying gratification.

The Executive Council is excited with the prospects of a wonderful year ahead. Whether this ambition is realized will depend upon the participation of all students. We welcome you and wish you happiness and success in your university life, love and pursuit of education. We know you are just what we need to make the "Y" greater than ever before.

Excavation for New Building Begins

Excavation has begun for the new Joseph F. Smith Family Living Center on Brigham Young University campus.

The contract for about one and three-quarters million dollars was awarded to Christiansen Brothers of Salt Lake City, according to President Ernest L. Wilkinson.

Christiansen Brothers also constructed the Carl F. Eyring Physical Science Center and the David O. McKay Building, the largest classroom buildings on campus, and are now in process of building the eight new Heritage Halls women's residences.

When students return to campus this week for the autumn quarter they will find the parking lot at the north end of the large turf quadrangle already turned up and fenced off. Parking will be moved farther north on the hill at the top of the stadium.

The building will be the first known structure in the United States placing all family and home science studies together. It will house the complete College of Family Living, School of Nursing and Departments of Sociology and Psychology. The College of Family Living includes departments of Clothing and Textiles, Economics and Management of the Home, Food and Nutrition, Homemaking Education, Housing and Design, Human Development and Family Relationships.

The new building will contain 50,000 square feet of floor space in its three stories and half basement, exceeding the new David O. McKay Building by about 50 per cent in size and cost. It will measure about 400 by 104 feet to the widest points. Dimensions for the main three story section are 308 by 64 feet.

Facilities will include a half basement which will house permanently the University and campus housing telephone switch-

Mat Dance Group Interviews Begin

Interviews for Matinee Dance committee members will be held today and tomorrow from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the Executive Council conference room. It has been announced by Miss Wanda Peacock, Price, committee chairman.

The Executive Council room is located in the basement of the Herald R. Clark Student Service Center.

Miss Peacock said students are needed who would like to work on posters, publicity, decorations or any other phase of dance planning.

Matinee dances are student body dances which are held every Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:30 in the Social Hall ballroom, Miss Peacock said.

In addition to its many laboratories and classrooms, it will provide the most up-to-date outdoor laboratory for the nursery school and child observation.

The building will be constructed of golden brick and has white stone, matching the other buildings in the quadrangle but resembling most the David O. McKay Building. The walk at the front of the building will be covered and lined with concrete columns.

Cats Lose Opener To Bevos

Brigham Young's young griders made an unsuccessful venture into the realm of collegiate football Saturday, as Oregon State tagged a 33-0 defeat on the Cats at Corvallis.

Some 8,500 faithful watched the Beavers uncoil a hard-hitting attack with a fleet of single wing runners operating behind a pupped forward wall dominate play. Bannum's loss marked the debut of the 1955 BYU season.

The Cougars were outgunned statistically, as Oregon State rolled up a total of 23 first downs and 492 yards gained from seven nukes. On the other hand, Brigham Young could muster only 30 first downs and 235 net yards.

Inexperience Shows

Inexperience handicapped the Cat effort, as was evidenced by the poor blocking and tackling of the Brigham club against their Pacific Coast Conference opponents.

Only twice did the Cats threaten, reaching the 2-yard line on one occasion, and the 13-yard stripe in the fourth period, a fumble ended the first threat, while the Beavers knocked down a pair of passes to thwart the latter drive.

Beavers Score First

An interception proved the way for the first OSG tally, which was scored by little Sam Wesley on a 3-yard reverse. Searle added the conversion to give the Beavers a 7-0 first quarter lead.

Wesley scored again in the second period on a spectacular, twisting 44-yard punt. Again Searle kicked the extra point, thus accounting for Oregon State's 14-0 halftime margin.

Near the end of the first half, BYU center Tom Phillips poked off a Beaver pass on the winners' 38. After three plays made it, Phil Oyler burst over the middle to the 5 for a first down. Carroll Johnson and Oyler moved the seal to the 2 on three thrusts, but a fumble snuffed the Cougar drive at that point.

Quick Score

Oregon State ran the second-half kickoff back to the BYU 45, and scored six plays later on a 36-yard sprint by tailback Joe Francis. Again Searle converted which built the OSG margin to 21-0.

A sparkling 30-yard punt return by Wesley set up the fourth Beaver tally, which was scored one play later on Wendstrand's 32-yard gallop through the Cougar line.

The Cougars recovered an outside kick on their 45 to begin their final thrust into Beaver territory. Dalton Overstreet carried twice over eight tackles on 14 and 18-yard plunges to place the ball on the OSG 23.

After Oyler picked up 5 and Overstreet was stopped, the Cats tried two passes which failed, thereby relinquishing the playback on the 18.

The Beavers took the ball on their 18 and marched 32 yards for their final tally which was scored on a 9-yard pass from Francis to Wendstrand.

Attempting to bounce back of last week's 33-0 loss to Oregon State, Brigham Young's hopeful griders will face underdog Los Angeles State Saturday night in the Cougar Stadium, Game time is 8 p.m.

Coach Chuck Adams has shown dissatisfaction over last week's showing and will be drilling his charges hard for Saturday's encounter. Thus, incidentally, marks the only home appearance for the Cats until they homecoming game early in November.

Cougars Fast

The Cougars are blessed with speed this year, with such operators as Phil Oyler, Jim Critchenden, Gary LaCombs, Will Stalworth, and Johnny Volcano in the backfield. Several newcomers from last year's fresh eleven gave added strength to Adams' half-back corps.

A question still exists at the tial quarterback slot as Bob Olson, Don Carroll, Johnston and Brock and back in the position. None of them has any previous experience the Oregon State team.

Owen Skousen, Tom Hunter, and Ray Nash-Brugmans some valuable catching experience, but the aerial attack has been perhaps with improvement, the Cats will be looking for their receivers this week.

Improvement Due

The Y eleven was unhappy with their blocking and tackling, but should be better from its first game performance. Several coaches have been working to improve this weakness, and the Cats are expected to improve.

The coaches have especially the freshmen, but as a whole for Saturday against the LA State team, and that the crowd will be 7,000 mark for the Cougar inaugural.

The LA eleven is optimistic, although through the BYU file as their first year. Coaching them Gold line will be Rex, former Cougar line back, sweeping motor.

It is anticipated that the formations will unveil an attack against the Cougar, the recent leading up line game.

The Universe has 3 BYU as a 20-point favorite L.A. State.
